

Dear Readers... 1st of all, please let me tell you that as easy as we think James Bond (Superman etc) have it, this is simply not the case. "Saving the world" and "international intrigue" is tough-stuff indeed :-)

Maybe I should switch my lifestyle to BackHomeAgain.com

If I did, my stories would look like this...

Back home again! Readers, "ain't no place like home"...

Below: My back-yard (shown is 1/3rd of my dirt-ride area) never looked better...

Below, a zoom-pic of 5-Fingers which can barely be seen in the above pic...

Still learning to use my new big/complex cam. Yes "it takes good pics" but there are a zillion "modes" and I have yet to decipher the process :-)

News... The road-pavers are here (front yard)...

...but I still do not know when "tar day" will arrive. Below, more signs of forthcoming activity... Nicely graded road, eh?

Roadside consultation...

On my way to town, 5-Fingers looms (note the summit-access road)...

Lots of chores to do, like banking...

...and haircut ("#1-buzz")...

...and then (how boring) I had scheduled a test-drive in a Mini Clubman which I had seen in a used-car lot...

...and which is the darling of the go-fast car-magazines. Below, another pic which shows the 3rd side-door (only on passenger side)...

The back...

And (below) uh-oh my driver's view out the back w/the doors shut... Note the vertical door-frame blocking the view...

Bummer, but then again, "just a test-ride". My view of the dash...

Reading your mind Wow! How was it? My reply (one word)...

Terrible. Honestly, I cannot comprehend why anyone would own this, the S ("supercharged") model...

- Severe/harsh ride
- Very noisy inside
- "Drumming" of the interior (maddening, and near-constant)
- Good: Car is FAST and (honest) both roomy and very comfy :-)

Then, I spied (for the same price!) a new 6-cyl 300hp Ford Mustang...

Below, the spectacularly comfortable and sporty interior...

No, I did not go for a test-ride. But if "first-impressions" count, Mustang is a winner!

Returning home, I took one-last-shot out my back door. Always changing-modes, looking for a "winner" (this pic was not it, but hey)...

Hmmm... Reminds me... Garage needs cleaning/organizing :-)

Pretty boring eh? Well, stand-by for more boring-ness from BackHomeAgain.com as the cool weather arrives...

Thanks for reading along!
