

Adventurers... We are at base-camp, Breckenridge, Colorado!

Below is our 4-bedroom, 3 1/2-bath rented home...

WooHoo!

Home tour! Real-homey eh?

Anybody for cooking?

Everybody gets a bedroom... Below is mine...

Pigpen's place...

Below is where Art lives...

...the rest of Art's pad...

The scenery is spectacular. Breckenridge is "10 peaks" and we can see them and the ski area from our TV room...

Murph took "the bunkroom" for himself.
Murph... Expecting guests?

Time to ride! Suit up! Murph & Pigpen...

Head for the riding area...

...and here we go... Pigpen at 12,500'...

Breckenridge ski area across the valley (Art & Pigpen)...

Breckenridge (town) is at 9,600'. Wow. The commercial radio station in the below pic at 13,000'+. All the bikes are running well, although Art's KTM is overheating on long climbs...

Art is pointing out the Monday route waaay across the valley's...

Below, fast-approaching rain cut short our time at the top. Today (Sunday) is a short/easy "acclimatization ride" :-)

Running for home, we stopped for a snack. Pigpen did exceedingly well today despite his vacation from dirt-bikes (Pigpen lives near New York City, Murph picked him up at the Denver airport)...

...which is fair/noble as Pigpen/Murph were room-mates at the US Naval Academy. Below, nacho's "worthy of Pigpen"...

Monday, all the fun/games ends. We have scheduled 150+ miles/day riding, mostly above 12,000' and we will see 14,000' multiple times on this trip. Thank you for your support...
